Interactive Map

- ▶ Interactive Didactical Map of Religious Sites: places (e.g. pilgrims' routes, ghettos, hostel for pilgrims etc.), sites of worship (churches, synagogues, mosques) and/or artistic masterpieces (e.g. paintings, statues etc.) that are significant from a religious point of view and build a consistent set of teaching and learning information to in depth the knowledge of the different religions cohabiting in the local areas.

Intellectual Output n. 3 Online Training course

- The online training course provides information on Ceremonies- celebrations- dietary rules in the main religion.
- The course presents a comparative review of the liturgical celebrations, the ceremonies and the dietary rules existing in the different religions, with a particular focus on the monotheistic ones. The diffusion of a culture and a multi-ethnic society have made such comparison not only necessary, but stimulating in terms of knowledge and educational implementation in the school environment, even inspiring the consequent educational knowledge and methodologies.

Intellectual Output 3 – Training course on line

- ▶ The starting point is the Celebrations, followed by the ensuing ceremonies, or festivities, (Ceremonies). The presentation, also from a historical point of view, of these two starting points is then linked to the concept of "Dietary rules", that is, those practices related to the feeding regime, to the rules of feeding and / or fasting observed in each religious context and, in some cases, even quite similar in the different calendars.
- ▶ Educational approach
- ▶ In order to effectively ground the theoretical approach to teaching and school practice, the course presents and provides short videos where the students are the protagonists, with the purpose to understand how they live the impact of celebrations and celebrities in their everyday life.
